

November 2019 Newsletter

Greetings!

Gosh, all I seem to be telling you lately is changes to opening times and staff comings and goings! Well sorry, this month is no exception.

Jade is leaving us as of November 6th as her job teaching Beauty at the college is much more demanding than was first thought. She wasn't getting to spend much time with her little boy between the two jobs so something had to give and unfortunately that's us. I'm sure you'd all like to join with me in wishing her all the luck for the future.

Also sadly Lisa won't be working in November either so this means that I will be working alone on Tuesdays and the Saturdays that I am in and this will be a permanent thing. Wednesdays in November will be a bit hit and miss with Lisa not being here, but I hope to be able to accomodate as many people as possible in between my clients that I see at home!

Bridgette is working on Wednesdays and Alison is still here on some Tuesdays, but when we are all in the treatment rooms it means the door will be locked intermittently on those days, so I beg your continued patience with this.
